Planning a design project

Co-host script | Original fictional worked example | Planned episode: 30:00 | Scripted anchors plus unscripted discussion; verify all facts.

0:00-0:20 | Opening hook

HOST: What would change if you approached Planning a design project with one clearer question? Today, we'll work through that question together.

[Replace this hook with your episode's actual promise.]

0:20-1:00 | Show introduction

[MUSIC: Fade your licensed intro under the first line, then out.]

HOST: Welcome to Independent Ledger. I'm Alex Sample, and today we're discussing Planning a design project.

HOST B: And I'm Sam Example. Let's start with the question our listeners are asking.

[PRONUNCIATION: Confirm names before recording.]

1:00-23:20 | Main discussion

HOST A (Alex Sample): The first question I want to explore about Planning a design project is [add question]. What is your starting point?

HOST B (Sam Example): [Add your approved point and a real example.]

HOST A: Let me offer another perspective: [add your point].

HOST B: What would change your view?

[AD LIB: Compare the evidence without speaking over each other.]

HOST A: Let's separate where we agree from what we still need to check.

[CUE: Agree a hand signal for the next speaker.]

23:20-29:20 | Reflection and next step

HOST: Before we close, let's bring this back to a practical next step.

HOST: One thing you can try is [add an action supported by the episode].

[AD LIB: Explain when this action may not fit.]

[OPTIONAL SPONSOR: Insert only approved copy and disclosures. Rebalance the section timings if adding a break.]

29:20-30:00 | Recap, CTA and outro

HOST: Today we explored Planning a design project. The point I want to leave you with is [summarize what was actually covered].

HOST: If this was useful, [choose one actual call to action].

HOST: You've been listening to Independent Ledger. I'm Alex Sample. Thanks for joining us.

[MUSIC: Bring the outro in after the final line.]

[CREDITS: Add actual contributors, sources and permitted music.]